Pack Lost Again!

This morning's run was virgin on the ridiculous, more virgins than hashers, where had they all come from? Well we had ET's brother and his 3 children who had arrived from Oman, and a completely new family, the Pinels, Victoria Anushka and Andrew. Plonker brought along his daughter Corkscrew & we (Jump to Back Page) welcomed back a long-lost Crapaud - 2 Inch who had hashed with us more than 20 years ago, and decided to return bringing along her son Josh. Nutter had also brought along his 2 very tall sons Giraffe and Beast. Steptoe called the pack together, for some words of wisdom, apparently in 1951 it was the first battle of flowers after the war, there were some other facts but I missed them!

Anyway it was on on and with a surprisingly youthful turnout, the hash set off at a cracking pace, heading off towards the old rectory towards the airport perimeter fence, it was a while before we realised we didn't have a hare with us, and we had all done a false trail. It was on back to find the trail leading to La Grande Piece, although one of the young hashers thought the trail was up a tree.

The trail then led from the turfing fields to Val de la Mare reservoir through woodland paths, where we negotiated brambles and nettles, and disturbingly, Steptoes passion wagon. Hashers followed the trail through maize fields and potato fields which were now very dry and dusty. The trail led us neatly back to the George de Carteret. To prove that our hash is becoming more high brow, we had a poetry reading by Twin Peaks.

Down Down's: Virgins – Paulas brother Steve, and his 3 children Dylan Megan and Ruby, the Pinel family, Victoria, Andrew and Anushka, Nutters boys known as Giraffe and Beast! Returnee – 2 inch. Hare's – Molehills and Steptoe plus last weeks Hare's ET and Fuzz at the Croquet Club.
