Spring is rising.

This Sunday Trotsky invited us to the Watersplash, there was a good turnout. Our hare promised us a good run and lots of baby ducklings.

It was on on for the runners along the beach and up over the footpaths to have an unscheduled drink stop at 28 degrees and droopy drawers home, droopy drawers had been celebrating the night before and had been unable to join the run because of an alleged hangover.

After a false trail the run continued around the reservoir seeing the promised baby ducks on the way and then on home.

Meanwhile the walkers enjoyed a walk through the orchid field and along the lanes to the old sunshine nursery site, and on past les Mielles golf course where baby goslings were seen.

The 'Splash' fed us well with sausage and chips and we retired to the patio for the down downs, up first was our deputy RA, Jacko who had lost his keys, which were returned to him by the GM. The Bitch is Back was called forward for making a phone call during the run, with 2/3 of the Mount Snowden climbers, Twin Peaks and Vital Statistics the other member of the team, Wendolene, was absent because she was helping Walkies find her bag that she had left on the wall when buying some Jersey Royals, Both Wendolene and Walkies received their down downs on their return.
