

CRAPAUD H3 REPORT

Run No.:	1755
Date:	3 September 2023
Hare(s):	Ballcock	Scribe:	Twin Peaks

BOTH the hare and scribe turned up early for today's run and witnessed a very rare sight indeed: the arrival of our very own Tinky Winky on his brand new electric bike. He was trying it out for next week's Bike Bash and was definitely impressed by his new purchase.

Soon after we were joined by Illegal, Bags of It, Steptoe and Walkies, along with Rachel, a visitor to Jersey who was hoping to run but changed her mind at the last minute. Maybe next week.

We made idle chatter for a few minutes in the hope that more Hashers would turn up but apart from Jacko and Frisco, who put in their usual late appearance, that was to be it for today.

With the high tide threatening to flood the slipway any thoughts that our hare might coax the pack along the beach were quite quickly dismissed as the rough sea definitely didn't look very inviting. Instead, the runners, all five of them, headed inland and into a field of very high weeds and nettles, the first of many such encounters.

From here on I can only guess at where the trail took them as I forgot to ask Ballcock for directions, but the walkers' and runners' paths did cross once again near HolmeGrown. At this point Steptoe had fallen a far bit behind the pack, having had to stop and do up both shoelaces . . . Didn't his mother teach him anything?

Needless to say, Steptoe and the runners were reunited in the end and all safely made it back to the pub for what I'm told was a veritable feast.

I had to depart before the food to join some of the Harriettes on a trip to the Minquiers, but late arrivals Molehills, suffering from a bad back, and Muff Diver were able to indulge in the on-downs. Ballcock received the normal punishment for laying the trail but apart from that it was a quiet affair.

Twin Peaks

Publisher: The "Scrumptious On-Down Quisine" 2023 Award goes to Ballcock for Seymour Pub cocking-up (forgetting) his food order then being embarrassed serving up top-notch light battered fish, exquisite calamari, amazing mini-quiche's, rough-cut salad and cheesy garlic bread all for £4.50 / mouth! Walkies & Frisco tucked in Big-Time!

The Hardy Hashing Runners – Hariette’s all AWOL this Sunday!

What a Collection of Wobbly Bums!

Diving into the Nettle Field!

Becoming Submerged in the Nettle Field!

Little & Large?

Pack thought On-Down's were gonna be Alfresco again!

Full Speed past Fauvic Villa

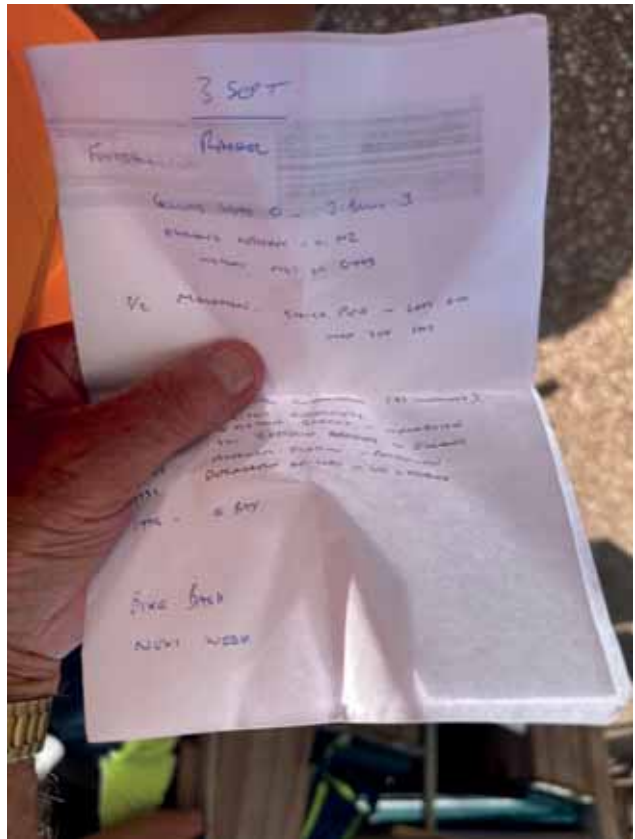

Ballcock took a break while Nosh was served

Ballcock wasted no time Downing his Half-Pint!

Walkies wasted no time getting "stuffed"!

While Frisco munched through left-overs! GM's secret On-Down Script

Finally Steptoe held-forth with more impossible questions!