Paddy's day fun

There was a good turnout on a lovely day for Jacko's run from Greve de Lecq. It also turned out to be a bit of a family affair – there were Wendolene & Double Tops (sisters); Twin Peaks, Vital Statistics, Shifty & Heidi (more sisters); Software & Zac (father & son); and Muff Diver (assorted brother in law).

This was clearly a well thought out and precise affair to judge from the superb map provided by our conscientious hare (see pic below). In the absence of the GM, who was away on another of his world tours, there was to be no historical quiz before the On On. There were actually three groups setting out this morning. The runners and walkers were joined by the Scenic Strollers. Whilst the first two groups set off to the woods and hills the latter group opted for flatter ground and decided to take in the glories of the bay.

The walkers and runners crossed paths a few times as they criss-crossed the leafy valley. Eventually all three groups convened at the Moulin De Lecq. We took over most of the downstairs of the pub leaving a small space for the delighted locals! The sausage and chips were delivered individual portions which, though nice, did seem a little over the top. Some of us felt obliged to wash the food down with pints of the black stuff, whilst the coffee/tea drinkers had a long wait to get their drinks.

There was just one sinner on the run – Zac had taken a tumble and was suitably punished. This just left our hare Jacko who was also punished for organising an excellent morning. Well done that man!
