Roamin' in Snobin

Go west said Software and so we gathered outside the Parish Hall in St. Aubin. There was a good turnout for Our run and walk on a chilly winter morning. Our new GM mounted the rostrum to address us. He didn't have any historical facts to share with us but did share an observation about the Dr Hook 1970s hit which starts: "When you're in love with a beautiful woman – it's HARD!!" - Naughty....

He then called on Software to explain the trail which was simply "It's laid in sawdust". Short and to the point. And we were off.

The runners experienced a tricky course over slippery seaweed and rocks which involved a bit of mountaineering. This also came in handy for the descent from Portelet common to Ouaisne. Nonetheless they did manage to get to the Trafalgar before the walkers. (The runs trail is shown on Steptoe's Strava in the pics.)

The walkers had a very pleasant stroll through the lanes of St.Brelade..Trotsky and Muff Diver spent most of the walk discussing the population size of Jersey through the millennia and when the Jersey roads were laid – Roman? Medieval? Farm tracks? Not sure that either really knew though.

As I mentioned the On Inn was at the Trafalgar and there were three down downs Steptoe for losing his green woolly hat, Jacko for misplacing his blue fleece and our hare Software.

A most enjoyable morning
