National Trust 90th Anniversary Run

As part of Jersey National Trust's 90th birthday Conrad Evans, from the Trust, arranged with Crapaud and Jersey Hash House Harriers for a joint run from their headquarters at The Elms, St Mary.

The hares for the run were Jacko from CH3 and Branchage from JH3 with the walkers trail being set by Smuggler. In all 45 hashers turned up for the run, 19 of whom were runners and the rest walkers.

Both the runners and walkers trails led though the fields and meadow adjacent to The Elms before heading off into the adjoining lanes. By happy coincidence both the walkers and the runners arrived back at The Elms at exactly the same time. There was time for everybody to have a good look around The Elms and the orchard and walled garden were of particular interest. Then it was feeding time!

Each hash had supplied a good variety of eatables laid out inside the Pressoir of the old farmhouse. Nil by Mouth had attended to the needs of CH3 with a lovely spread and JH3 had their own fare. There was more than enough for everybody.

Once we had filled our plates we mingled and chatted in the courtyard outside the Pressoir. For some reason our Hash Rev decided that there would be no down downs this week and so we came to a gentle end as we said our farewells. There was some talk of doing the same next year as it was a such an enjoyable morning.
